Course Description – Orton-Gillingham I, the Associate Level, is a 60-hour course which will be offered to teachers, administrators, speech and language pathologists, parents, and others who would like to learn more about the structure of our language using multi-sensory techniques in order to help students of all ages learn to read, write, and spell. Orton-Gillingham is an approach developed in the 1930's by Dr. Samuel Orton and Anna Gillingham, which has been successful in remediating students who have difficulty reading, writing, and spelling, especially our dyslexic students. Understanding its principles and techniques will teach attendees how to best instruct their students in all the elements of our language, which include phonological awareness, sound/symbol, syllables, syllable division, vocabulary, fluency, comprehension, as well as basic written expression. Learning how to use writing in a kinesthetic way will reinforce all learning and ultimately enhance memory. Take home many teaching materials to use with your students. This course also comes with three graduate credit hours for those seeking certification requirements. Beth Moore, MEd, Fellow, Academy of Orton-Gillingham Practitioners and Educators

With over thirty-five years of experience as an educator and a Fellow in the Academy of Orton-Gillingham Practitioners and Educators, Beth has trained teachers through Orton-Gillingham courses at schools, colleges, universities in the United States as well as internationally. She has presented numerous times at the International Dyslexia Association Conferences and the Academy of Orton-Gillingham Practitioners and Educators Conferences. Additionally, she authored the book Reading Readiness, A Visual, Auditory, and Kinesthetic Approach. Beth currently works privately to evaluate and remediate children, and offers advocacy help to parents seeking services from their school systems. Beth has developed a specialty in handwriting, its developmental stages, fine motor issues, and the critical role it plays in reinforcing reading and spelling.

*Cost $1,000.00 (includes text, notebook) *$250.00 non-refundable deposit made payable to The Chandler School to hold a place in the class. Remaining balance due by June 1, 2018.
